ISPO Policy: Eligibility for Member Registration Rates at the ISPO World Congress

Published: July 2026

Eligibility for ISPO member registration rate

To be eligible for the ISPO member registration rate for the World Congress, an individual must be an ISPO member in good standing at the time of registration.

To retain eligibility for the member registration rate and attend the World Congress, members must still be in good standing at the commencement of the World Congress on 22 March 2027.

Members whose membership has expired before the start of the Congress will not be eligible to attend using the member registration rate unless they renew their membership.

If a registrant's membership has expired before the start of the World Congress (or their first date of entry into the Congress, whichever comes first), they may either:

- renew their ISPO membership and pay any outstanding membership fees, or
- pay the difference between the member registration amount previously paid and the applicable non-member registration rate.

Verification will take place during onsite registration and badge collection, where applicable.
